

Chris Fehlhaber

Assistant Horticulturist Chris Fehlhaber takes pleasure in documenting the ever-changing garden through the seasons through photography and assisting with stonework in the cooler months. He delights in unexpected, capturing photos and videos on his iPhone to not miss the garden's constant growth and evolution. A gardener at heart, he grew up in his mother and grandmother's gardens in southeastern Wisconsin. He has developed his skills through practical hands-on experience working with designers, plants people, farmers, and gardeners. Following graduation from the University of Wisconsin and work at a nursery, Chris was drawn to Chanticleer as a garden for the sake of being a garden; one that allows its staff to engage in the practice and joy of gardening.
